

A Few Miscellaneous Scenes From Our New Home

It is hard from some to understand our decision to retire early and to move nearly half-way around the world to a small rural village. For us, retirement was the dawning of a new adventure. Perhaps a few photos from the area around our new home can convey some of the motivation we have to want to be here rather than any other place..

All of these photos were taken in walks between the house and the farm or on the farm or hill top parcel we own. We aren't artists nor professional photographers. We tend to take photos to document our lessons, volunteer work and project efforts. These photos are not in any particular order. We hope you enjoy them.
