Tonight's program: A special History Channel docudrama "After Armageddon" This program shows in graphic detail just how fast normal society can break down in a major disaster , and even has a small segment on the importance of amateur radio to be able to communicate without infrastructure. While the program uses the flu virus as the reason for the breakdown, it could just as easily be any one of a number of other causes. As you view this video carefully contemplate how you would react in this worst case scenario. Are you prepared or is this a wake-up call?
