The President's Notes

Changing of the Guard

Hello Everyone,

This is the first article from me, Jerry Fielden, since I was elected President at the annual meeting we had in November. Let me say that the turn-out for the meeting was outstanding and we need to thank outgoing President Tim Allen for running a superb meeting with much humor and attention to details. Thanks, Tim, for all the time and effort you have given to the Council and the community.

The other officers for the coming year are: Vice President Greg Smith who just came aboard in September and is continuing for the coming year. We also have Joe Ward reelected as Secretary and Brian Butler who agreed to serve another term as Treasurer.

I'm sure everyone has been busy with all the holiday activities and I hope you are having a wonderful time. The New Year is just around the corner and it is time to start planning for the coming year. Our first Board meeting will be January 5th at 7:30 PM at the Peterson-Dumesnil House. If you would like to see what goes on at a Board meeting we invite you to attend.

Some of the goals for the coming year are to have the community become more aware of the Council and what it can do for the Crescent Hill community. We want to strive to welcome new residents into the community and have more people become involved with the Council and community.

These goals we have set forth for the coming year will require involvement of a lot of new people. Do you have a little time to

Joe Ward

When the Crescent Hill Garden Club's Judy Gogan asked Joe Winkie to make a xylophone for the Peterson-Dumesnil House's side garden (see the article on page ??, this issue) he didn't even know how to spell it. Crescent Hill's master craftsman/artiste – responsible both for the PD House's storm windows and the Fourth of July's hand-fired fireworks – went to the internet looking for information starting with a "z."

But that's Joe's modus operandi. He starts with what he knows, or thinks he knows, and then finds out what he needs to know. Using the internet and friends, he found out what a xylophone is, where it came from, the best sort to have for an outdoor community location such as Judy had in mind, what materials he needed, and ultimately, how to build one.

He settled on an amadinda xylophone – which Joe can now tell you means "big keys wood sound" – and learned that it needed to be tuned in the key of C on a pentatonic scale. That's the technical stuff. On the more practical side, it needed to be made from wood that could take a beating – since it was to be played by all comers – and would weather well, since it was to be outside.

Besides being the PD House caretaker, Joe works for Tow Zone Trailer and Equipment Sales in Jeffersonville, where, among other things, they put really tough floors on truck and trailer beds. They use a hard wood called Apitong, from Malaysia, and there usually are scraps of it lying around the work shop. Joe got some of that, and some short lengths of pvc pipe for resonators from Habitat ReStore, and some chunks of 4x4 and 2x6, and a couple of aluminum bars and some nylon rope, cotter pins and turnbuckles, and he was in business. The whole thing cost the Garden Club $550 with Joe donating the labor.

Joe called Mark Tate of the Louisville Orchestra to find out what exact notes he needed for his key and scale, and he emailed a friend of a friend in California to find out how to tune his chunks of Apitong. He had to cut them to a certain length, and then remove a little wood in a concave shape from the underside – a little more for deep tones, a little less for the treble. He found and learned to use a computer program into which he could feed a note through a studio quality microphone, by tapping a piece of wood, and then shave it a bit on his radial arm saw and tap again, until he had “precisely” the right note. He said all of that tapping may have driven his wife, Alice, a little nuts, but she didn’t say so.

Chris Roode plays at the Sept. 28 reception.

Once he had the notes, he had to adjust resonators that hang below the keys to amplify the sound. They’re made from the pvc pipe, and work on a principal similar to blowing across the mouth of a jug. He cut the pipe to an approximate length as suggested by his friend in California, and then tuned it by moving a water-filled 2-liter bottle with the top cut off up and down on the pipe and tapping until the sound was just right, to the ear, and verified by the length of its wave as shown on the computer. He sealed the bottoms of the tubes with chunks of an old mudflap off a Peterbilt.

Joe can’t play the xylophone, so he had to wait for its dedication to hear it played – by musician Chris Roode. He said he knew he had all the notes right and everything, but still he was mildly astonished to hear something he made sound that good. He thinks it took him about 40 hours to make it, including time to learn computer programs, but it would take less now to make another one, in case anybody wants to commission more.

He built the instrument last summer, and until he put it into storage for the winter recently, people played it all of the time. “It’s kind of a babysitter,” he said. “Kids play it while their parents are inside.” He said one couple with a child would come almost every night, and he and Alice, eating dinner on the balcony of the caretaker’s house, could hear the notes of the instrument resounding off Barrett Middle School next door, a very pleasant sound.

“It combined all of the things I like,” he said “woodworking, design, computer skills and music.”

Plus, it adds to his already impressive resume: xylophone maker.

Expanded Recycling in the 9th District

by Tina Ward-Pugh

Over the past several months large orange recycling carts and repurposed garbage carts with orange lids have been appearing throughout the District. These 95-gallon recycling carts for businesses and households are available through the 9th District Expanded Recycling program, which has been received by our community with great excitement. This enthusiasm about sustainability is what made me confident that the Green Triangle sustainability initiative would be embraced by the 9th District. The Green Triangle is a community guided initiative to look at everything through a green lens in the District. Part of realizing this sustainable vision is the Expanded Recycling program for households and businesses, which began in April 2011, after a successful pilot program for businesses on Frankfort Avenue.

Do you recycle more than you throw away at your home? Is your business looking for an economic option for recycling? If you answered yes to either of these questions, please contact Katie Holmes, Special Projects Coordinator at katie.holmes@louisvilleky.gov or 574-1109 to receive a signup form for the Expanded Recycling program.

Councilwoman
Tina Ward-Pugh

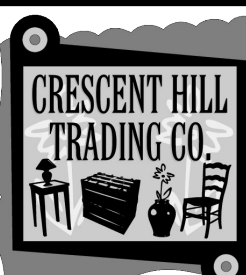

Businesses can receive 95-gallon recycling carts for a one-time fee of $55 per cart.

Residents have two options to choose from, each costing a one-time fee of $55. Residents may opt to keep their current garbage capacity and receive a new 95-gallon recycling cart, OR they can receive an orange lid for their current 95-gallon garbage cart to convert it to a recycling cart and a new 68-gallon garbage cart. Recycling will be picked up once a week for both businesses and residents.

One of the two main goals that the Green Triangle is working towards is creating a universal access system for recycling and repurposing in the 9th District, to reduce the overall waste output of the District. Expanded Recycling is the first major project related to this goal, and more will be created in the coming months. Learn more about the vision of the Green Triangle and how you can be involved at www.mygreentriangle.com. The Green Triangle's website will be updated in the coming months to include interactive components to help District residents quantify the steps they are taking to create a sustainable future.

LMPD Fifth Division Sponsors National Night Out at Peterson-Dumesnil House

by Grover Sales

The Louisville Metro Police 5th Division presented its annual National Night Out program August 2, 2011 at the historic Peterson-Dumesnil House. A crowd of over 1,500 attended the displays of the following LMPD units: SWAT, Mounted Patrol Unit, Air Unit, and All-Terrain Vehicles (ATV). Free food and door prizes were given away courtesy of our many gracious sponsors. Louisville Metro Council members Tom Owen and Tina Ward-Pugh donated funds and the use of tents.

The event was visited by LMPD Chief Robert White and Lt. Colonel Yvette Gentry.

Child IDs were printed and a Bluegrass band —The HallBilly's—led by Resource Officer Marc Hall, played and entertained the gathering. This may have been the best National Night Out event in all of LMPD! Much of the planning was done by Lt. Tracie Shugart, Sergeant Kevin Wheatley, Officers Jeff Artman and Marc Hall and the entire 5th Division Advisory Board. Recently retired Major Steve Green did a yeoman's job in getting all the LMPD units to attend and gather donations. The 5th Division was very pleased to show the community that our Officers are much more than writing tickets and arresting bad guys.

Kennedy Court Park Update

by Trish Fleischman

The changing of the seasons brought Kennedy Court Park into a full spectrum of stunning autumn color. During the Annual Fall Clean-Up day on October Volunteers at the Annual Fall Clean-Up day on October 22.

22, several community volunteers and neighbors gathered to weed and prune the rain gardens and clear fallen branches in the park. Many thanks to District 9 Councilwoman Tina Ward-Pugh and Brightside for providing supplies for the event and a hearty thanks to all who volunteered their time and effort!

Fundraising for the park's ongoing renovation continues into 2012 as we attempt to meet a generous matching offer from Councilwoman Tina Ward-Pugh. Subsequent phases of the park's master plan include renovating pathways, improving handicap accessibility and making other infrastructure upgrades. Giving levels for the park are: Community ($1-$99), Friend ($100-$249), Supporter ($250-$499), Patron ($500-$999), Benefactor ($1,000-$2,500) and Sponsor ($2500+). Gifts at any level of donation are deeply appreciated. The most current donors to the Kennedy Court Park project are:

Friends: Linda and Walter Wood

Patrons: Brian and Carson McGraw

Spirit of Crescent Hill Awards

Trick or Treat Success on Hillcrest Ave.

During the Halloween Season, the folks on Hillcrest Avenue collected 431 canned goods, 47 boxes of pasta and other grain items, 136 jars of baby food, 4 bags of beans, 1 bag of rice, 1 bag of chips and 10 lbs of potatoes. As well as $85.06 in spare change - all for the food pantry at United Crescent Hill Ministries. A few bags of canned goods came in after we delivered all that food adding even more to these totals.

Thanks to all of you who participated and got the word out.

Kathy Schmitt, Hillcrest Representative
Crescent Hill Community Council

In order to keep you updated, I want to share with you some changes which will be coming in the months ahead: our newsletter editor Miriam Forinash will give up the newsletter editor job around the May - June time frame in order to attend to family matters. She has done a wonderful job for us and I know I have enjoyed each of her issues, but the time has come for us to look for a new editor. Do we have anyone who can spare some time and move up to the editor's job? There are also a couple of vacancies on the Board that need to be filled and you need to speak up quickly if you are interested --before they are gone.

Tie a String Around Your Finger

by Jessica Starost

I know how it goes. You get the envelopes, you see the form in the back of the newsletter, you receive reminders via e-mail, however, you just can't seem to remember to send in your Crescent Hill Community Council membership information along with your dues. You have every intention on joining and becoming more involved, but you just keep forgetting. I understand. I was the same way. It took several reminders from a couple of friends/neighbors who were on the council board before I finally mailed in my membership envelope.

Here's what I propose. Tie a string around your finger. Not only will it remind you to send in your membership information, but it will help you spread the word as well. When your neighbors/friends see the string on your finger and ask you about it you can tell them what it's for. (Feel free to mention some of the great things about being a member: Supporting community events like the 4th of July and Music and Arts Festivals, contributing to help make the community more visually appealing with tree plantings and improving Kennedy Park, receiving the annual discount card, which can be used for tons of savings all while supporting local businesses.)

We all accomplish so much more when we work together, let's start this year out right by all becoming members or renewing our memberships today. I hope that you all consider signing up. We'd love you have you on board.

Crescent Hill Garden Club Donates Xylophone

by Mary Johnson

Visitors to the Peterson-Dumesnil House this fall may have come upon a large play-it-yourself musical instrument in the Sitting Garden. It's an amadinda xylophone, donated by the Crescent Hill Garden Club and designed and constructed by P-D House's Joe Winkie.

Inspiration for the xylophone came from the Garden Club's Judy Gogan, who says that the P-D House "has always meant 'music' to me," since the band camps held there when she was a student. Gogan said she had seen television programs about outdoor "community" xylophones, and was intrigued, so the Garden Club commissioned Winkie to develop a similar instrument. The amadinda xylophone was the result. "Joe is a true craftsman," says Gogan, "and would be happy to create similar instruments for other Crescent Hill and Clifton community institutions."

This kind of xylophone originated in Uganda. While the Baganda tribe from Uganda has an established method of playing the amadinda -- with 3 players, set notes, and a syncopated rhythm -- the 17 keys, tuned to a five-note scale (F,G,A,C,D), means that all the notes are "sympathetic" with one another, allowing any number of people or anyone to play; there are no "sour" notes. It's an ideal instrument for children or people who have "no musical ability."

On Sept. 28, one could hear the familiar strains of "Amazing Grace" echoing in the twilight at the xylophone's unveiling reception. Local musician Chris Roode's brief concert also included Asian melodies and a number of his original compositions. Since then, the xylophone has been played a lot. During public events at the P-D house, people find their way to the Sitting Garden and start making music. In fact, almost every day, or evening, someone can be found creating a tune on the instrument.

The xylophone is now in storage until spring.
