We will all benefit from Our Neighborhood Project

Lighting the Historic Wells Street Bridge

Installing new Entrance Markers for Bloomingtondale Neighborhood

The Wells Street Bridge was opened in 1884.
It was the city's first iron bridge.
It replaced a bridge that was built in 1859.

The Bloomingdale Neighborhood founded in 1974 with the name of Northwest Central.
It was changed to Bloomingdale in 1992.

Historic Wells Street Bridge looking south

Bridge looking north

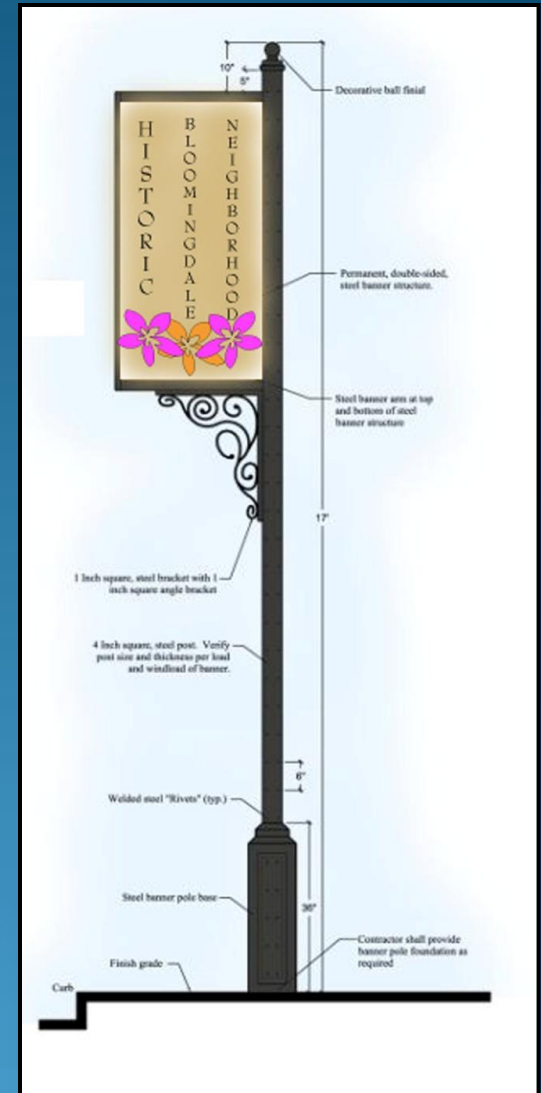

Because our area is so large,
the neighborhood has decided instead of one marker on the Wells Street property, we would like to have several markers
at our other boundaries.

These are two Samples Of Markers

I think that Everyone Will Agree We Like Flowers,

But that Is one change
We would make

This slide show is to inform The Bloomingdale Neighborhood People
Of the Projects the representatives From the neighborhood will be Presenting to the Best Practices Leadership Class
On February 21st

We are giving our goals on the 21st of February.
We would like to be one of the two neighborhoods chosen to get their projects selected. If we are not selected at least we learned a lot from the classes that we have attended since October.
