On January 12, 2013, Police Officer First Class Jason Borges-Garcia and Police Officer Christopher Wheeler responded to the 3700 block of Dunlap Street in an effort to find a suspect wanted by a neighboring jurisdiction. Upon arrival, the two patrol officers saw a man standing at the front door of a residence. When the man spotted the patrol officers, he began to frantically bang on the door. The patrol officers then engaged the subject, who continued to act erratically. As the patrol officers gave the suspect verbal commands, the man jumped from the front porch and tried to run away. The suspect was quickly caught, but resisted the patrol officers efforts to arrest him. During the arrest, the suspect grabbed at his waistband and refused to stop resisting. After a brief struggle, he was placed into custody. A loaded pistol and a bottle of PCP were recovered from his pocket.

On January 5, 2013, Police Officer First Class Michael Waters noticed a man urinating in public in the 9100 block of Temple Hill Road. The patrol officer approached the man who exhibited nervous behavior and was speaking incoherently. Police Officer First Class Waters conducted a pat down and recovered a loaded handgun from the man's front pocket. Additional responding units spotted cocaine in plain view in the suspect's car. A further search turned up ammunition inside the vehicle.
