Pioneers of Desegregation and Forced Busing

Looking Back at History 40 Years Ago

Friday, November 13th at 7 pm

Vincenzo's Restaurant—150 S. 5th Street

Please join the “Pioneers of Desegregation and Forced Busing” on the evening of Friday, November 13, 2015 at 7PM for a forum entitled: “Looking Back at History 40 years ago....Desegregation and Busing in Louisville” at Vincenzo's Restaurant, 150 South Fifth Street. Tickets to the forum are $35.

Guests panelists and invited guests include Mayor Dr. Harvey Sloane, State Senator Gerald Neal and Representative Darryl Owens, U of L History Professor and Author Dr. Tracy K'Meyer, KY Commission on Human Rights President John J. Johnson & the NAACP'S Raoul Cunningham

While the 1975 busing and desegregation period was a very traumatic period for many, it was a cornerstone historical civil rights event which helped shaped Louisville and the state. Mayor Sloane was mayor of Louisville and his office placed the call to Governor Julian Carroll requesting support from the National Guard during the riots, marches and protests of 1975 during that very pivotal year.

According to the Atlantic Magazine April 2015 issue, Louisville is touted as the city which maintained integration through 40 years of busing. Louisville's school system is consistently compared favorably to other city school systems such as Detroit, Boston, and Charlotte-Mecklenburg who underwent busing.
