"Preserving the integrity of the Jefferson Area since 1982"

President's Message_from Ted Guerra

appy New Year Neighbors!

The month o f January brings the inevitable New Year resolutions. If you are like most of us, you set a resolution, commit to it in burst of excitement and then wake up one day (mid-January) realize and goals vour have suddenly disappeared and been replaced with everyday life.

This year, I suggest we focus on a life change... Humor me a bit here while I ask you to journey with me toward a life changing goal. I challenge you to focus on your relationships.

Who do you love? God? Yourself? Your spouse or partner? Your children? Your parents? Your pets?

These are just some of the important relationships we have in life. Could we improve on these ties?

My wife and I will be married 25 years this April. Some may say "Wow, you're lucky, it worked." Others may respond "Wait until you're married 50 years!"

Thinking about the changes that people strive for in the New Year has prompted me to ask myself, "How can I improve o n m y relationship with wife?" To begin, I guess I can try to recall why I wanted to marry her in the first place. Upon recalling the reasons, I then have to examine the reality that a 11 relationships take and work. I can't expect that because I initially courted her and made many efforts in her direction so many years that should be ago, enough to carry through 25 or more years.

My wife and I are two VERY different people. I have heard that opposites attract and our union is a testament to that truth. With us being so opposite, we tend to disagree on many things, even to this day. That's where the "effort" comes in. It's like playing cards. Sometimes you "fold" other times you "give and take" and yet on other occasions, you win; but the game always continues.

This dynamic is the i n a n y relationship. If you always want to win, the other player gives up and doesn't want to play anymore. This year, and in the years to come, I resolve to go the extra mile, take the extra steps and do special "little" things that will keep my wife by my side for many years to come.

I challenge you to make a similar commitment to positive change in some of your relationships. We all have a little more to give and we all need love.

I think you'll find that when you give love, it is always reciprocated and well worth the effort.

This theme can be carried into the neighborhood association, too.

How can you be a better JNA member or m a k e m o r e contributions to the betterment of our neighborhood?

There's plenty to do in 2013. Roll up your sleeves and let's start working on improving both ourselves and our neighborhood.

Happy 2013,

Ted

Applications for Scholarship readied

Members of the JNA Scholarship Committee have announced that the 2013 JNA/Evelia Reyna Scholarship applications are ready.

The application will be posted on the JNA website (www.neighborhoodlink.com) or can be obtained by calling Elia Reyna at the numbers on the left hand side of this newsletter.

Each year, the JNA awards money to a graduating high school senior. The amount varies with what has been collected for the fund during the fiscal year.

The scholarship was begun by Past President Ed Gaitan and Mrs. Reyna's name was added after her death to honor her commitment to education.
